SPEAKING Skills

The following strategies can help you on the reading, listening, and speaking integrated tasks in the Speaking section.

STRATEGIES FOR AN INTEGRATED SPEAKING TASK (Reading, Listening, and Speaking)

1. Be familiar with the directions. The directions on every test are the same, so it is not necessary to search for directions for directions carefully when you take the test. You should be completely familiar with the directions before the day of the test.
2. Explain the directions as soon as you get them. Do the same with the directions when you hear them in the listening section. If you are not sure, ask the instructor for clarification. Do not try to write down everything you hear. Do not write down too many unnecessary details.
3. Do not worry if the material in the integrated task is on a topic that is not familiar to you. All of the information that you need to give your response is included in the passage. You do not need any background knowledge to answer the questions.
4. Read the reading passage carefully. You will have only a limited time to read the passage.
5. Take careful notes as you read the passage. You should focus on the main points and the supporting material. Do not try to write down everything you read. Do not write down too many unnecessary details.
6. Listen carefully to the passage. You will hear the passage one time only. You may not hear the passage again.
7. Take careful notes as you listen to the spoken material. You should focus on the main points and the supporting material. Do not try to write down everything you hear. Do not write down too many unnecessary details.
8. Organize your response very clearly. You should have an overall topic statement that shows the relationship between the reading passage and the listening passage. You should also discuss the reading passage and the listening passage.
9. Use transitions to make your response coherent. Your response is easier to understand if you show how the ideas in your response are related.
